

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All I say is this, there are many times, in the remainder of this session, when I'm going to be badly handled and I'm going to call you back to this day for the leniency with which others were dealt, and I'm going to ask for the same thing for me.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Senator Chambers, I'll try to treat you fairly. I don't know what the other members handling the chair will do. I'll try to treat you fairly. Senator DeCamp, for what purpose do you rise?

SENATOR DECAMP: Mr. President, a point of order.

SPEAKER NICHOL: A point of personal privilege?

SENATOR DECAMP: No. Point of order.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Point of order? All right.

SENATOR DECAMP: Because it is an important matter and I've noticed us getting a little lax on this activity. After closing I wonder if the present conditions didn't create, so to speak, a reopening of the debate, even if you have to take another vote to close debate, and whatever, I just guess I think to establish a precedent it's effectively reopened debate.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Your point is well taken. I think it would be well to remember that. After the closing discussion has been made point of privileges should not be dealt with to accentuate a point of the actual debate instead of a point of personal privilege. So, with that, we'll go on. The question is, shall the bill be indefinitely postponed? All those in favor vote aye, opposed nay. Keep in mind a simple majority wins. Have you all voted that care to? Three are excused. Senator Hefner.

SENATOR HEFNER: Looks like we need a call of the house. How many are excused?

SPEAKER NICHOL: Three.

SENATOR HEFNER: Three. Okay. Call of the house and a roll call vote.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Okay. The question is, shall the house go
